BUCK SHOTS

- The Milwaukee Bucks have won 17 of their last 18 games as they head into Tuesday night's game against the Orlando Magic. The Bucks won for the 17th time in their last 18 games on Sunday with a 117-111 win over the Wizards. Milwaukee is now an NBA-best 46-18 this season and remains in first place in the Eastern Conference standings.
- After Sunday's win in Washington D.C., the Bucks have won their last eight road games dating back to Jan. 23, which is now tied with the 76ers (Dec. 31-Feb. 3) for the longest road winning streak in the NBA this season. Overall, this is tied for the seventh-longest road winning streak in franchise history and is the longest since winning eight straight road contests between Nov. 10 and Dec. 21 in 2019-20. The Bucks enter tonight's game with the third-best road record in the league this season at 19-12.
- The Bucks have won their last 13 games against the Magic dating back to Nov. 1, 2019, which is tied with their 13-game winning streak against the Kings for their longest active winning streak against an opponent. Milwaukee is 2-0 against Orlando so far this season and has already assured itself of its seventh consecutive season series win.
- The Bucks dished out 30 assists in both games of their back-to-back last weekend, just the second time this season that they've recorded 30+ assists in consecutive games (Dec. 5-7). Milwaukee is now 9-1 in games with 30+ assists this season, with five of those games coming after Jan. 23 when they have won 17 of their 18 games.
- Jevon Carter tallied his fourth 20-point game of the season in Sunday's win over the Wizards, knocking down a season-high-tying six threes en route to scoring 20 points. Entering this season, Carter had tallied only three 20-point games in the first four seasons of his career combined. In addition to averaging career-highs in scoring, rebounds and assists this season, Carter is also shooting a career-best 42.1% from three, which is now up to 12th-best in the NBA.

A WINTER STREAK – The Milwaukee Bucks saw their 16-game winning streak come to an end on Saturday night against the 76ers. It ended up being tied for the third-longest winning streak in franchise history, trailing only the franchise record 20-game streak in 1970-71 and the 18-game streak in 2019-20. It was also the longest in the NBA this season, coming in at four games longer than the next-best streak.

Longest Win Streaks in Bucks History
Streak	Season (Dates)

2. 18 games	2019-20 (Nov. 10 – Dec. 14)

As part of their streak, the Bucks went a perfect 10-0 in the month of February, marking just the fourth undefeated month (of at least three games played) in franchise history. It was the second time this season, and the third time under head coach Mike Budenholzer, that the Bucks have had a perfect month.

FINDING THEIR GROOVE – It's no surprise that the Bucks' numbers were up across the board during their 16-game winning streak, especially since the Bucks big three of Giannis Antetokounmpo, Jrue Holiday and Khris Middleton were all available throughout the majority of the streak (note: Antetokounmpo and Middleton both returned from injuries at the start of the streak). See below for some of Milwaukee's numbers during its winning streak compared to its numbers prior to the streak and its rank in the NBA during those times.

This season, the Bucks have been one of the five-best rated teams on defense all season in addition to ranking in the top five of a number of other defensive metrics. HEAD COACH MIKE BUDENHOLZER

Mike Budenholzer is in his fifth season as head coach of the Milwaukee Bucks, having led the Bucks to an NBA Championship in 2021, the most wins in the NBA and four playoff appearances in his first four seasons with the franchise.

After taking over as head coach in 2018, Budenholzer has guided the Bucks to a 213-96 (.689) regular season record and a 38-22 (.633) mark in the postseason, which combined, are the most wins in the NBA over the past four seasons. In addition to winning the NBA Championship in 2021 – the franchise's second title and first in 50 years –

Budenholzer has led the Bucks to a top three finish in the Eastern Conference all four seasons, including the top record in the NBA in each of his first two seasons with the team, and two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals (2019, 2021).

Budenholzer has found success in Milwaukee by turning the Bucks into an elite offensive and defensive team. In his first four seasons with the team, the Bucks led the NBA in scoring three times, including the 2020-21 season when they averaged a franchise record 120.1 points per game. Defensively, Milwaukee has led the league in defensive rating twice under Budenholzer and has finished in the top 10 in three of his four seasons.

Budenholzer reached his 100th and 200th wins with the Bucks faster than any coach in franchise history and begins the 2022-23 season in third place on the Bucks' all-time regular season wins list and second on the all-time playoff wins list. He currently leads the franchise in both regular season and playoff win percentage. Budenholzer has also earned Eastern Conference Coach of the Month honors five times as coach of the Bucks (Jan. '19, Feb. '19, Dec. '19, Jan. '20, Feb. '23) and was selected to coach Team Giannis in the 2019 NBA All-Star Game.

Entering his 10th season as an NBA head coach, Budenholzer is a three-time winner of Coach of the Year, earning the honor in the 2014-15, 2018-19 and 2019-20 seasons. In 2014-15 with the Atlanta Hawks, Budenholzer won the Red Auerbach Trophy as the NBA's Coach of the Year and in 2018-19 with the Bucks, he again won the Red Auerbach Trophy as the league's Coach of the Year, in addition to being named the Michael H. Goldberg National Basketball Coaches Association Coach of the Year, which is voted on annually by the NBA's head coaches. Budenholzer was then named a co-recipient of the Michael H. Goldberg National Basketball Coaches Association Coach of the Year, along with Oklahoma City's Billy Donovan, following the 2019-20 season. The 2014-15 and 2018-19 seasons were Budenholzer's first with the Hawks and Bucks, respectively, where he earned Coach of the Year honors after leading both teams to 60 wins and appearances in the Eastern Conference Finals.

Budenholzer became the 16th head coach in Bucks history on May 17, 2018, bringing more than 20 years of NBA coaching experience to Milwaukee, having been part of coaching staffs that won four NBA Championships. He came to the Bucks from Atlanta where he compiled a 213-197 (.520) record in his first five seasons as a head coach with the Hawks from 2013-18. He was named NBA Coach of the Year following the 2014-15 season after he led the Hawks to a franchise-high 60 wins and an appearance in the Eastern Conference Finals. Atlanta made the playoffs in four of Budenholzer's five seasons with the team.

Prior to joining the Hawks, Budenholzer spent the previous 19 seasons with the San Antonio Spurs, including the final 17 seasons as an assistant coach, where he was part of one of the most successful eras in NBA history. As an assistant coach with the Spurs from 1996-2013, Budenholzer helped lead San Antonio to a league-best 908-438 (.675) record and NBA Championships in 1999, 2003, 2005 and 2007. Budenholzer spent his first two seasons with the Spurs as a video coordinator before becoming an assistant coach in 1996. He also served as the team's Summer League head coach on numerous occasions and was an advance scout for Team USA for the 2004 Olympics.

A native of Holbrook, Arizona, Budenholzer is a 1993 graduate of Pomona College where he received a bachelor's degree in politics, philosophy and economics and was a four-year letterman in both basketball and golf. Following college, Budenholzer played professionally in Denmark for the Vejle Basketball Klub, averaging a team-high 27.5 points per game during the 1993-94 season, while getting his start in coaching, serving as the head coach for two different teams in the Vejle system.
